

Director of Center for Information Systems Research (CISR) & MIT Sloan
Senior Research Scientist

Peter joined the Sloan faculty in 2000 to become director of MIT Sloan's Center for Information Systems Research (CISR). MIT CISR (established in 1974) is funded by fifty corporate sponsors and patrons, and undertakes practical research on how firms generate business value from IT. MIT CISR disseminates its findings through briefings, papers, workshops and executive education. Peter's research and advisory work centers on the role, value and governance of IT in enterprises.

Peter has taught executive education and MBA programs on the business value of IT and has written award-winning books, journal articles, and case studies. These include his 'best selling' co-authored book, IT Governance: How Top Performers Manage IT Decision Rights for Superior Results (Harvard Business School Press 2004) and Leveraging the New Infrastructure: How market leaders capitalize on information technology (HBS Press 1998). Peter also co-authored Place to Space: Migrating to eBusiness Models, (HBS Press 2001) which won one of the Library Journal of America's best business book of the year awards and was reviewed by the New York Times.

Peter has recently coauthored a new book entitled Enterprise Architecture as Strategy: Creating a Foundation for Business Execution (HBS Press, July 2006) and is researching business agility. Peter regularly works with corporations and governments in IT issues including: Aetna, Australian Tax Office, BCG, British Telecom, IBM, Merrill Lynch, McKinsey, Microsoft, PwC, Raytheon and State Street Corporation.
